Material Transfer Promotes Nathan Schafer to Director of Operations

Strategic appointments reinforce the Company's commitment to customer success.

ALLEGAN, MI (March, 2023) – Material Transfer & Storage (MTS), an industry leader in the custom design and manufacture of bulk bag filling, conditioning, and discharging systems, announced the promotion of Nathan Schafer to Director of Operations. In this new role, Nathan will be responsible for the strategic planning of operations, high-level risk management, and daily operations analysis. He will focus on enhancing productivity and increasing profitability by identifying areas for improvement and implementing strategies to achieve our companywide goals.

Nathan has been an integral part of the MTS Operations Department for many years and has exhibited exceptional dedication, which has led to significant improvements in the overall efficiency of our operations. Additionally, Nathan has demonstrated his technical expertise by fulfilling additional IT duties companywide.

"Nathan's promotion to Director of Operations signifies not only his exceptional dedication and expertise but also MTS's commitment to recognizing and nurturing talent from within," remarked Sergio Carrillo, Director of Sales and Marketing at MTS. "We're confident that under his leadership, our operations will continue to thrive and exceed expectations."
